MAJOR NOT SEEKING A TOGA

Will Not Run for Senator Stone's Place, the Governor Asserts

Jefferson City, Sept. 30.—Governor Major, just back from his vacation, said most emphatically today that he was not a candidate for the United States Senate and had no intention whatever of entering the contest.

"The people of Missouri," the governor said, "elected me to serve four years as chief executive of the state, and I intend to serve the four years as governor if I live."

"I do not believe in the policy of one putting his hands to the plow handles," the governor said, "and then turning back. I would not be true to myself or to the people who elected me governor if I should enter the approaching senatorial contest. I am thankful to the people who elected me governor and I hope to serve them as governor to the end of my term."

A NEW SULZER DEFENSE?

Governor Turned Down Gifts From Interests. It Is Said

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 29.—That Governor Sulzer did not go about the state trying to get all the money he could for his own purposes and for the purpose of the campaign, but that, on the other hand, he returned large subscriptions made to his campaign by big interests, stating when he did so that he was determined to keep his hands free to serve the people, will be one of the biggest and most vital points of the Sulzer defense.

Governor Sulzer returned two contributions—one of $20,000 and one of $17,500—which were made to his fund by "special interests." One of these sums, that of $20,000 was made to him by a man who, while conspicuous in the financial world, also was an intimate friend.

Despite this latter fact, and despite the fact that this man was willing to help the governor in his fight against Charles F. Murphy, Sulzer, it is stated in his defense, refused to accept the money. He sent it back by the bearer who brought it, without any discourtesy, but with the plain statement that he could not accept the contribution. The case of the $17,500 is not quite the same. That came from a "special interest" with which the governor believed that he could have no connection whatever.

WOULD REVISE MONEY BILL

Utermeyer Criticised Many Features of the Currency Measure

Washington, Sept. 29.—General revision of the details of the details of the administration Currency Bill to insure the carrying out of the purposes of the measure was recommended to the Senate Banking and currency committee today by Samuel Utermeyer of New York. Many of the changes proposed by Mr. Utermeyer went to vital points of the bill.

"Criticising the bill's definition of 'commercial paper,' on which currency would be issued, as 'loose and unrestricted,' Mr. Utermeyer declared that the lines should be strictly drawn to allow the issue of currency only on commercial paper representing the purchase or sale of a commodity which would enter into commerce. Here recommended allowing the proposed regional reserve banks to rediscount a wider range of paper than would be eligible as a basis for paper.

Mr. Utermeyer also recommended altering the plan of organization of the proposed regional reserve banks. He would give the national banks ninety days in which to subscribe the capital and deposits for the regional banks, and, if it was not forthcoming, would throw the stock books open to public subscription, closely restricting the powers of the subscribers in controlling the bank. This plan, he said, would tend to force the banks to enter the system.

The bill as at present framed, Mr. Utermeyer declared, gave the banks themselves too much power in the organization and control of the proposed new system.
